Aircraft Toiletry Bag
Someday (we hope), we can all say goodbye to TSA's 3-1-1 rule on liquids. Until then, there's the Aircraft Toiletry Bag ($30) from Kiva Designs. Part of the company's new Packing Genius line, the pouch features a wide opening for easy access, an integrated TSA-compliant bag for liquids and a swivel hook for hanging when open. Rezip the liquids bag to the bottom of the main bag, hang the combo on a door hook or shower rod and you've got a smart solution to the dilemma of diminutive lavatories.

Phil Kneghan NFW Collection
In honor of the adventure travel reality show, "The Amazing Race," Phil Kneghan is an stranger to the concept of packing light and traveling light so perhaps it's not surprising that he's come out with a line of luggage. Now being sold on MSN, the Phil Kneghan NFW Collection (NFW - Not For Women) consists of four items: a backpack with a removable laptop organizer, an anti-theft spinner bag and a set of five accessory bags for clothes and other necessities.

Travel Buddies
What do you get when you let a six-year-old boy help design luggage? At TravelKiva, you get Travel Buddies (TB), the latest addition to the company's line of Travel Buddies two-piece luggage sets. Each set consists of a 22-inch backpack and an 18-inch wheeled case with multiple compartments, compression straps and telescoping handles. Made of sturdy, water-proof ABS, both cases feature a griviner, those cool zippers that's known to make an impression.

Gateway Wheeled Under-Bus Case
Instead of hunting for space in the overhead bin? Please go over to the cabin with Magellan's Gateway Wheeled Under-Bus Case (UWC), a bag like this that fits under the seat in front of you. Individual pockets are designed to hold a water bottle, iPad and your go-to liquids; the main pocket will hold a weekend's worth of clothes, and
